

WE ARE THE COLOR OF FREEDOM:
RESISTING RACIST POLICE
SURVEILLANCE IN A TRUMP ERA

RESOURCE GUIDE

On March 29, 2017, the Center for Media Justice and Color of Change co-hosted a virtual town hall, We are the Color of Freedom: Resisting Racist Police Surveillance in a Trump Era.

Moderated by Brandon Patterson of Mother Jones, this event assessed the threat of White House executive orders on immigration and policing, discussed strategies to resist racially-biased police surveillance, and re-imagined sanctuary for all in a Trump era.

Together, we learned that, under Trump, law enforcement agencies have been given free reign to criminalize and pursue immigrants and people of color. Resistance to these attacks must be led by the communities that are most heavily policed under this administration: Black, immigrant, and Arab and Muslim communities.

Included is a list of resources that came out of the conversation featuring guest speakers Thenmozhi Soundararajan of Equality Labs, Joan Donovan of UCLA, Alvaro Bedoya of Georgetown Law's Center on Privacy & Technology, and Deborah Peterson Small of Break the Chains.

WE ARE THE COLOR OF FREEDOM:
RESISTING RACIST POLICE
SURVEILLANCE IN A TRUMP ERA

RESISTING RACIST POLICE

Electronic Frontier Foundation's
Surveillance Self-Defense
<https://ssd.eff.org>

Equality Labs' Digital Self-Defense
in the Time of Trump
<https://www.equalitylabs.org>

Joan Donovan's Website

Joan Donovan is a postdoctoral fellow at UCLA's Institute for Society and Genetics where she researches the impact of DNA ancestry tests on the worldview of white nationalists.
<http://joandonovan.org>

The Perpetual Line-Up: Unregulated Police Face
Recognition in America
<https://www.perpetuallineup.org>

Stop LAPD Spying Coalition
<https://stoplapdspying.org>

We Are the Color of Freedom: Reflections on Resisting Mass Surveillance in a Trump Era
http://centerformediajustice.org/color-of-freedom-report